Shabazz The OG started his career early in the music business as a rapper and radio station intern in high school.

From there he propelled into promotions, artist bookings, road management, and ultimately project manager and consultant.

Shabazz always felt his life, and means of support would revolve around the entertainment industry. But as we know, "Sometimes we don't find our purpose. Our purpose finds us". He quotes.

Much to his own surprise, Shabazz discovered that his purpose in life is to give. By way of offering his life's experiences and collected wisdom, to those who know him or not, via his social media platform.

Shabazz has used social media as a vehicle to delve into the lives of people who needed to hear his messages. At times that proved to be critical for some. And for others it was simply refreshing to hear someone echo their same sentiments on where we stand as a culture and society.

From his platform, Shabazz has entered the community and spoken in over 15 facilities and institutions to date. And has been the featured guest on numerous interviews.

His aim is to continue sharing, motivating, encouraging, uplifting, and educating. While remaining available to actively instill morale, confidence, and accountability to all whom he encounters along his journey.

What's his formula?.....TRUST, LOYALTY, and CONSISTENCY

SHABAZZ CONTINUES TO IMPACT THE WORLD!!!

SEE WHAT PEOPLE HAVE TO SAY.....

I know you preach this all the time, but please remind the youth about posting everything on social media. I'm serving on a grand jury and I'm amazed at how many cases we have vote to indict simply because of self incrimination on IG. It's crazy because otherwise the evidence is shaky. You have a bigger platform than I do, so I'd appreciate if you'd remind them again. It's bizarre to me that so many are doing the police's job by blasting their business on social media. I've always said that the best kept secret is an untold secret. Do your dirt alone!

Shabazz, I just wanted to reach out to you to thank you. You platform made my mama happy and hopeful. You played songs in the opening that, she reminisced did her silly little two step dance moves as her feet slide around the floor and every minute she smiled and hummed the songs. She loved the topics as well. She & I would seat watching sometimes she held her grandbabies watching your topics. I just wanted to thank you for giving me some good memories with my Mama ..I truly appreciate you.

Man Og I'm not gone lie waking up seeing you respond fucked me up 🤔 i swear to you following you make me think my granny raised you because your morals and shit but over all I wish you nothing but blessings big dog because I know my 2 strike having ass be needing your dialogue

@Shabazztheog not sure if you even read your dm's it don't matter because I'm still let you know that it's much love and respect for you and the way you bring clarification and shine light on things. I've been in prison for the last 18 years on a 20 year bid for armed robbery but ain't a day go by that I don't pay someone with a phone so I can stop by your page to pick up the jewels you laying down it actually help make it through some days in here so my advice would be for to stay safe because they have a tendency to knock off POWERFUL BLACK MEN keep spitting eventually everyone will start listening 🙏🔥

Your book was really great. Although I don't relate to the day to day you experienced. Your messages taught me a lot. Being more true to yourself is probably my biggest takeaway. It's an area ive fallen short in. Thank you for sharing your story!

What's up king? I hope all is well with you. I hit you up a few times asking for some game in regards to my son. My son is 13 & no matter how much I talk to him it just goes in one ear & out the other. He's aware of my past because I don't want him to follow my path by joining gangs & hanging out with people who could really care less about him. I talk to him about all the potential risks until I'm blue in the face. He promises to always change but never keeps his word. I often keep his ass in the house because I fear something bad happening to him but I know how it feels to be cooped up all the time. Is there any chance that we can schedule a date & time that suits you & talk to my son please? I know you get hit up a lot brother I just love my son too much to give up on him but I'm exhausted & lost for words. Thank you brother. God bless you.

Hey OG ima try to keep this short. I appreciate the jewels 💎 you've been dropping lately Especially the one with the 20yr old young man named Justin. My youngins that want that street life and street cred had a close call and finally got smart to get out the game and try college after he listened to your live. I've been trying to get him of the streets and with his close call and listening to you I think something finally clicked in his head. I really really appreciate the game man. Just wanted to say thank you and continue doing what you're doing. One life off the street is another life saved. SALUTE!

Love all your content OG I'm young but ..same mind set facccts just appreciate everything you do and I hate social media but you def a real one ..keep doing what you do ..going to inspire a lot of ppl to get out they normal thought process and that's what the world needs
